

TINSELTOWN

Better to Burn Out,
Then Fade Away

“The love of fame is the last weakness which even the wise resign.”
- Publius Cornelius Tacitus

TINSELTOWN

Better to Burn Out,
Then Fade Away

ENDgame®

The dark underbelly crime structure of LA Confidential set to the surreal backdrop and high contrast style of Sin City.

STRUCTURE & STYLE

LOGLINE

This tale of murder, greed, envy, and obsession, set in a parallel world stylized to the golden age of 1940's Hollywood, follows hard-boiled veteran detective Frank Wilde as he investigates the "Angel of Death" celebrity murders.

DETECTIVE FRANK WILDE
Listen Bogart,
I don't know where you think you are but it sure ain't in your little playhouse. We run a different game down here and when you're on my turf, I make the rules. In this room I'm the leading man and get to say the first line and screw all the dames in the joint.
You got that, slick?